

VENUE

Discover one of the oldest cities in the Netherlands called de Prinsenstad, the Princes City, since William of Orange held court in Delft in the 16th century. Stroll through the well-preserved, lively historical centre, with characteristic canals, ancient merchant houses, old churches and the splendid city hall which make Delft a perfect location for a high-quality EOS Topical Meeting in an enjoyable atmosphere. GETTING THERE

BY PLANE

The Amsterdam Airport Schiphol that can be reached from various international airports in the world is about 45 min away by train. For Delft, you have to change at Leiden Centraal or Den Hague Hollands Spoor (Den Haag HS). If you prearrange a taxi to pick you up at Schiphol, expect to pay about €60 to Delft.

The Rotterdam The Hague Airport is only 12 kilometres away and can be reached by RET city bus 33 that runs frequently to Rotterdam Centraal Station in about 20 min. From there you can go to Delft by train in 20 minutes. When taking an airport taxi from Rotterdam The Hague Airport, expect to pay about €35 for the trip to Delft.

BY TRAIN

Delft has two railway stations: Delft (near the city center and best for the university) and Delft Zuid (Delft's southern residential area). Trains run from:

Den Haag Central Station or Hollands Spoor (10 min, €2,20)

Amsterdam (1 h, €11,50)

Rotterdam (15 min, €2,90)

Schiphol Airport (45 min, €8,70)

(Please note that the train from Schiphol does not stop at Delft and you need to change at Leiden or Den Haag HS)

For the journey planner please refer to www.ns.nl/en

BY TRAM

From Den Haag HS also tramline 1 runs to Delft. Travelling time is approximately 20 minutes and a one-way ticket costs € 1,74.

On the trams you must use the OV-Chipcard or a day-pass which can be bought at the ticket office and vending machines at the station.

BY CAR

Coming from Amsterdam or Schiphol, Delft is at the end of motorway A4. Coming from Rotterdam, Delft has three exits off the A13 motorway. The city centre is best reached via the IKEA exit or exit Noord.

GETTING AROUND IN DELFT

BY CAR

During the next years construction works are in progress as a new train tunnel is being built through Delft. Therefore the flow of traffic and parking is severely affected and it is recommended not to use the car while visiting Delft.

Anyone who still goes by car please note that in the TU Delft area parking is possible for free but not in the old city. It has been made largely car-free but there are three large car parks at the edge of the center (Zuidpoort garage, Koepoort garage and Phoenix garage). These parking garages are opened 24 hours a day and parking fee is € 2,00 per hour.

Download more information about parking in Delft and a map with all possible spots here.

Note also that parking policy differs per area and is not always clear. Beware of signs "alleen vergunninghouders" (permit holders only) in some streets especially in residential areas. Sometimes only a floor tile with a "P" is visible. This means permit parking only. Unauthorized parking will cost you about €70.

BY BUS

From the station Station Centrum, which is at the back of Delft railway station, several bus lines run to the station Aula TU.

51 (direction: Zoetermeer, Centrum West)

Runs only Monday-Friday. For the timetable please click here.

69 (direction: Delft, Heertjeslaan)

Runs only Monday-Friday. For the timetable please click here.

121 (direction: Zoetermeer, Centrum West)

BY FOOT

The city centre of Delft is small enough to walk across in ten minutes. Most streets in the city centre are pedestrianized and only taxi's are allowed to use these streets, too.

From city center to the aula of TU Delft are approximately 10-15 minutes walk.
